

JOSHUA WALKER
President, Japan Society

Joshua W. Walker, PhD, has served as President and CEO of Japan Society since December 2019. Previously, he was Global Head of Strategic Initiatives and Japan at Eurasia Group in the Office of the President. Earlier roles include President and CEO of the USA Pavilion at the 2017 World Expo in Astana, Founding Dean of the APCO Institute, and Senior Vice President of Global Programs at APCO Worldwide. Before entering the private sector, he held positions at several U.S. government agencies, including the State and Defense Departments. Dr. Walker is a Senior Fellow at the Center for the Study of the Presidency and Congress and a Professor of Leadership and the American Presidency at George Mason University and the Reagan Foundation. He co-founded the Yale Journal of International Affairs and holds degrees from the University of Richmond, Yale University, and Princeton University. Raised in Japan, he is bilingual and bicultural.

